Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.President Obama has said his Administration shares the goals of the previous Administration to contain Irans strategic capabilities and regional influence, but the Obama Administration formulated approaches to achieve those goals that differ from those of its predecessor in particular through expanded direct diplomatic engagement with Iran. This effort was put into practice with messages to the Iranian people by President Obama, and through invitations to and contact with Iranian diplomats at multilateral meetings, including those on Iran s nuclear program. The Administration also de-emphasized or discontinued policies that Iranian leaders considered hostile including: ratcheting up international sanctions, efforts to promote democracy in Iran, and openly discussing the potential for U.S. military action. The Administration strategy on Iran is in some flux because of the allegations of a stolen election by the challengers to declared winner of the June 12, 2009 presidential election, incumbent President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, and the crackdown against protesters who demanded a new vote. President Obama has criticized Iran s use of violence against protesters, and observers say that the Administration might try to take advantage of Irans internal weakness to obtain a compromise that curbs Iran s nuclear program. If Iran refuses to return to the nuclear bargaining table. .
